Remembering Those Who Have Gone before Us in Death

On Monday, November 2, we celebrate the Feast of All Souls. During the month of November, we remember, in a special way, all who have gone before us in death.

The experience of the death of a loved one is always a “reality check” for us. As we grieve for the one who has gone, we also grieve for ourselves. We are mindful that we are a pilgrim people who are on a journey of faith. We have come from somewhere and we are going somewhere. Earth is not our home. We are aliens in a foreign land.

If we are honest with ourselves, we admit that the tears we shed are not just for our loved one who has died, but the tears are for ourselves as well, because we are made aware that we too will one day die.

“Eternity is born in time, and every time someone dies whom we have loved dearly, eternity can break into our mortal existence a little bit more.”

—Fr. Henri Nouwen, A Letter of Consolation

These words challenge us to make sure that we do not allow ourselves to let the deaths of our loved ones be in vain. Hopefully, each time we grieve a loved one, we become more open to life, more loving, more caring, and more open to the eternal life that awaits us.

As we remember and look to the past, we also look forward to what lies ahead for us. May our loving memories this month spur us on to a deeper respect and love for this gift of life given to us.

I share with you this prayer:

We Remember Them

In the rising of the sun and in its going down...
In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter...
In opening of buds and in the warmth of summer...
In the rustling of leaves and in the beauty of autumn...
In the beginning of the year and when it ends...
When we are weary and in need of strength...
When we are lost and sick at heart...
When we have joys we yearn to share...
So long as we live, they too shall live for they are part of us and part of you, O God, as We remember them!
