The Eucharist: Beginning Well

On this Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ, we take to reflect on the celebration of the Eucharist. We take time to reflect on the grand Mystery of the Real Presence of Christ under the forms of bread and wine.

I share with you parts of an article written by Rev. Thomas J. Reese, S.J., a senior fellow at the Woodstock Theological Center. This article, The Eucharist: Beginning Well, urges the Assembly's need for preparation in anticipation of celebrating the Eucharist:

One of the most difficult problems we face with the Eucharist is taking it seriously. How can we Americans take seriously something that is so inexpensive, readily available, and open to practically everyone? When you shell out $100 to see Nicholas Nickleby, you know you are going to a theatrical event that must be taken seriously. When the Superbowl is played, you must make room for it in your life or you will not have a chance to see it for another year. But the Eucharist is like a life-long running movie on HBO—if you are busy today, you can always see it later. And if you fall asleep during the show, you can always watch it again.

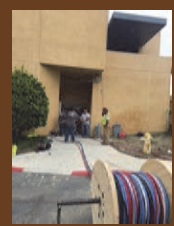

Spiritual writers from at least the time of St. Ignatius Loyola have recognized the problem of routine and have emphasized that the most important time in prayer is the beginning, or even before. This is true for the Eucharist also. While I had heard this point made hundreds of times, it never hit home until I began going to the ballet this past year. Working on the staff of "America" magazine, I never left the building without some material (manuscripts, galleys, etc.) that I could read on the subway or while waiting for an appointment. At first I followed this same practice while waiting for the ballet to begin, but I soon found that the first performance was half over before my mind could change gears and start enjoying the ballet. I began leaving my reading material at home and enjoyed the ballet more. I also found that a performance was more enjoyable if I got there in plenty of time rather than making a last minute dash. Finally, I began reading books on ballet, especially about the particular performance I was going to see.

Am I willing to do as much for the Eucharist? I'm afraid not, but shouldn't we? A last minute rush to church—getting the family together, finding a parking place—is not conducive to a prayerful experience. How many times have you, like myself, found yourself unable to remember what the Scripture readings were by the time the priest begins his homily? Our minds are so busy, distracted, or sleepy that the Word of God goes in one ear and out the other. St. Ignatius tells us to begin all prayers with a recognition of God's presence and with a preparatory prayer asking God for the grace to be attentive to His praise and service. The Eucharist demands at the very least a moment's reflection about why we are here and what we are about to do.

Ideally, we should also prepare for the Eucharist by reading and praying over the Scripture readings before the celebration...Taking the Eucharist seriously and beginning it conscientiously may be the most important things we can do as individuals to renew our liturgical celebration.

Remember—the celebration of the Eucharist, the Mass, begins at home!

St. Bonaventure Clothing Drive

Know someone who is cleaning out their closet...conducting a garage sale...or having an estate sale? Every November STM holds a collection of clothing and bedding to assist the Navajo Indians served by St. Bonaventure Indian Mission in New Mexico, where poverty runs rampant with unemployment over 60%. All serviceable bedding, shoes, and clothing, from infancy thru adult sizes are greatly needed. Perhaps you can reserve these items until November...or contact Deacon Tom at thomasgoeltz@aol.com or 760-727-8442 with questions or for assistance. Of the items God seeks each of us to do in life, helping those in need tops the list.

Vocations

What to do if you think you have a calling to be a priest, religious, or deacon:

1. Pray over it. Ask God for guidance.
2. Pray over it. Listen for God’s response. (Prayer is always the best way to determine any vocation...not just those in the Church.)
3. Ask questions. Find out what you will be getting into if you answer such a calling. The priests, nuns, and deacons in the Parish will always be happy to discuss your calling with you...so will the Office of Vocations at the Diocese...so will members of various orders.
4. Discuss it with family members or close friends whose opinions you value. They may have insights or questions that you have not thought of.
5. Do not be afraid to investigate such a calling.

REVISITING THE WORD

by Patricia Datchuck Sánchez and Rafael Sánchez Alonso, from Celebration
 June 2015, with permission.

If we allow it, the word of God penetrates our lives each month with the living, breathing presence of God. Through our active participation in the liturgy, we will listen to that word, and by God's grace, our listening will be translated into active responsiveness to the overtures and challenges of the word.

When Episcopal priest and professor Barbara Brown Taylor shared her experience of God's word, she called the Bible "a peculiarly holy book" (The Preaching Life, Cowley Pub., New York: 1993). She said that no other text had such authority over her; it interpreted her faster than she could interpret it. "The Bible speaks, not with the stuffy voice of some mummified sage but with the fresh, lively tones of someone who knows me here and now. Centuries-old passages become familiar and accumulate deeper meaning as I return to visit them again and again. They seem to grow between visits, so that each time I find something new that I never found before." And so it is with a sense of anticipation and a desire for discovery that we approach the sacred texts for June.

At the beginning of the month, with the celebration of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ, the two Testaments come together. The author of Exodus speaks of the covenant and its terms, while the Israelites promise active fidelity. Then the covenant is sealed with the blood of young bulls. As a fine segue to the Gospel, the author of Hebrews exclaims, "How much more will the blood of Christ cleanse our consciences!" Then the Marcan Jesus will declare, as he celebrates Passover with his own, "This is my blood of the covenant which will be shed for many." Through Jesus' Passover from death scripture themes for June

to life, from suffering to glory, a new and everlasting covenant has been forged between God and humankind. Each time we gather to be fed by the bread of the word and the eucharistic bread and wine, that bond is reaffirmed, and we are transformed by the One who has fed us.

As we listen to the sacred texts for the other Sundays of June, we will notice that each of the first readings reminds us of the mightiness of God, and that God has taken the initiative in the ongoing relationship God has shared with humankind through the centuries. On June 14, Ezekiel will affirm that God was instrumental in establishing the nation of Israel and in reestablishing it after the exile. "As I the Lord have spoken, so will I do." Once in a while, it might be good to remind ourselves that God is in charge and the world will continue to spin on its axis even if I am not at the center of it all. Job (June 21) learned that lesson through a lengthy series of daring arguments with God. In the end, he put his trust in God and acquiesced to God's greater wisdom.

On the last Sunday of June, the sapiential author of Wisdom underscored the goodness of God and all that God created. Wisdom also affirms the truth that God created humankind in God's own image and intended that human beings be imperishable, made for life and not for death.

In each of the second readings from June 7, 14, and 21, we will hear the voice of Paul as he encourages the believers in Corinth to live lives worthy of the gifts they have received from God in Christ. Let the love of Christ compel us toward goodness, justice and right, urges Paul. All of us who are in Christ—we are a new creation. Indeed, we are rich in every respect: in faith, discourse, knowledge, and love. When Paul's words come alive yet again in our hearing, we are reminded that as long as we are breathing, we have the opportunity to make things right, to repent, to begin anew, and to stay the course.

In the Gospels for June, we will witness the Marcan Jesus at work, healing, teaching, speaking in parables, all the while revealing the extent of God's love for sinners. Whether commanding the sea (June 21) or curing a woman who touched him (June 28), whether describing the kingdom as a mighty mustard bush with room for all (June 14) or raising to life the daughter of a synagogue official (June 28), in all he said and did, Jesus rendered glory to God and goodness to all of humanity.

As we listen to the sacred texts, and as we draw renewed inspiration from them, let us also allow the word of God to challenge us to follow Jesus more carefully. When we surrender in faith to God's word, we are transformed. "Like a lifeline strung from the beginning of time to the end, God's Words show us the way through all the storms of culture, nature, and history. They show us the way to the Word beyond all words" (Brown Taylor, op. cit.). Once we are there, no matter how circuitous the route we have taken, we will find ourselves at home and ever eager to listen, to learn, to love.

TOWERS OF FAITH

Future Support & Estate Planning Options

Towers of Faith is a movement that has arisen due to the visionary leadership and generosity of several of our Parishioners. We stress that this is not about the gift amount, but rather the love and thought behind the gift.

These individuals (several anonymous) have included STM in their estate planning. This helps to ensure their ongoing support and a legacy for our Parish. Towers of Faith is a valuable portion of our future support.

Examples of the various future planning vehicles are:

Designated Beneficiary Accounts,
 Last Will and Testament, Living Trust, Life Insurance, Stocks and Bonds, Real Estate, and Endowments.

Parishioners who have already included STM in their estate plans are Towers of Faith participants. If you are interested, please contact us. Your participation is most welcome and appreciated!

Chris Smith at 760-758-4100 x120, or chriss@stmoside.org.

A Christian Stewardship Prayer for June

Gracious God,
 So often you attempt to offer us a peaceful awareness of your presence.

It is always there,
 but often we do not slow down
 enough to become aware of it.

Help us to slow down and appreciate the gift of your presence, and come to a deeper understanding of the movement of your Spirit in our lives.

Help us recognize those moments
 when you rescued us, healed us,
 and reconciled us.

Increase our trust in you,
 and show us how to reach beyond ourselves
 to minister to others,
 and be better stewards and sacraments
 of your presence each day.

We pray this in Jesus' name.
 Amen.

—ICSC Catholic Stewardship June e-bulletin (with permission)

"The promotion of the practice of stewardship is important for the mission of the Church and for the spiritual well-being of each individual Christian. Everyone benefits from the sacrificial gift one makes of their time, talent, and treasure."

—Pope Benedict XVI

Memorials are a way of honoring those whom we love, whether they are living or deceased. Often, memorials are made for a special intention or in thanksgiving for a variety of blessings received from God.

Our Parish Campus will be a living memorial. All who help in building it will leave something to the community itself that will be used by generations to come. The good they do is not interred with them, but will remain to share in the divine activity of God here on earth.

Listed above are items still available for adoption.

All contributions will be recognized in a special memorial to be displayed in our Parish Memorial Garden.

For more information or to adopt an item, contact Chris Smith
760-758-4100 x120 or chriss@stmoside.org

For more information on our progress, visit our website, stmoside.org, and click on New Construction.
